Mobile PageSpeed — adult-diaper LP

What moved the needle

- ◆ On-page SEO + search-intent content + technical fixes lifted core elderly-care queries from mid–page-two to the top of page one (avg. 7.5 → 3.5).
- ◆ Optimised every product & single-product landing page for speed and structure; on the documented adult-diaper page, mobile PageSpeed went 34 → 81 — lifting ad Quality Score, lowering paid CPC, and clearing a load-time bottleneck for organic visitors. (PageSpeed treated as UX / Quality-Score hygiene, not a ranking lever.)
- ◆ Diagnosed organic-visibility volatility after a Google update and shipped a recovery plan: indexing audit, meta rewrites, internal linking, and E-E-A-T signals for YMYL health content.
- ◆ Built the conversion-first pages with Claude as my build partner — underpads, adult pants diapers, walking canes, wet wipes, down to single-product pages. I directed Claude to produce the custom HTML, CSS & SVG that Elementor couldn't, then reviewed, QA'd and shipped — AI as leverage on output quality and speed, under my direction.

HONEST CAVEAT

Organic click-through stayed capped: marketplace listings (Shopee, Tokopedia) dominate these SERPs, limiting clicks to the brand site regardless of rank. And PageSpeed is a tie-breaker, not a primary ranking factor — I treat it as user-experience and Quality-Score hygiene, not a silver bullet. I document limits like these rather than dress them up.
